https://anthonyburrill.xyz/

This website has a filter system, each image is tagged with one or more of these categories so people can easily find the works they're interested in. For my website, my works would probably be tagged by year of release, and perhaps contents such as character art, backgrounds, or sketches.

For the layout of the portfolio, I would like it to first be displayed similarly to social media websites where you can upload art such as Instagram and Deviantart, like Anthony Burrill's website and Usual2Unusual, and then when you click on a work, it gives you the option to move between the works using buttons or arrows.

https://www.usual2unusual.com/

Previous                                                    Next